Hymn: "There's a land fairer than land"

In 2015, Margaret fell sick and was diagnosed with cancer. Throughout her treatment, Margaret was brave, strong spirited and always had a smile on her face. Margaret was determined to come back to her home at Daniel Terrace and receive home care. In March 2017, Margaret returned back home, where her niece, Donna, became her full-time carer. Although Margaret's stay at her home was short, she was proud that she was able to be back home.

On the 28th July 2017, Margaret passed away at the Port Augusta Hospital surrounded by loved ones.

Rest in paradise Margaret Joyce Naylor.

Eulogy

Margaret (Margie) Joyce Naylor was born on the 28th of November 1945 in Maree, South Australia. She was the second eldest child of Riley Naylor and Elsie Paige. Margaret was a loving mother to Michelle and her son-in-law Wayne and a proud grandmother to Jacinta, Charles, Tanyta, Josese, Shelly, Shanea, Wayne and Akira. Margaret also had two great grandchildren, Gregory and Jeremiah, who she adored dearly. Margaret also had many extended grannies who she loved very much.

Margaret had ten sisters, Amy, Valerie, Janet, Julie, Colleen, Maxine, Edna, Brenda, Jennifer, Rosina and six brothers, Michael, Robert, Ronald, Jeffery, Phillip and Andy. Margaret loved all of her sisters and brothers and would often tell stories about them.

Margaret lived in Maree until 1954, when she was then stolen along with her other three sisters, Amy, Valerie and Janet and taken to the Umeewarra Mission, where she lived until 1967. Growing up,

Margaret played netball for the "Famous Brown and Gold, Umeewarra Mission" team and looked out for her sisters. The missionaries took the children camping at Melrose, Pichi Richi passing and Mangrove Point. While Margaret was at school, she loved the long walks around the Salt Lake and picking bush tucker such as wild peaches, sweet roots, witchetty grubs and wild onions. While Margaret was at the mission, she was baptized, at the age of 18, at Hospital Creek, in the 1960's, with her sister Valerie.. Margaret went to Umeewarra Mission School up until High School, when she and her sister Valerie, left the mission to start work.

Once Margaret left the mission, she worked at the Wilmington Station for the Fraser's as a domestic cleaner. During the holidays, Valerie would often visit Margaret at the station and the Fraser children would teach them how to ride the horses. They would then race each other around the station.

Margaret then moved back home, to Maree, and was employed by the Carbarn's to clean the carriages. Later on, Margaret found work at the Maree Hotel Motel as a cleaner. After living in Maree, Margaret moved back to Port Augusta where she worked at the City Council in the Nursery, which she spoke very fondly of. Whilst living in Port Augusta, Margaret would help her mum Elsie to look after her younger sisters and brothers.

In 1973, Margaret had her only child, Michelle Ruth Naylor at Port Augusta Hospital. Even though Margaret didn't raise Michelle, she was always close by and played an important role in her upbringing.

Margaret was very gifted as she remembered everyone's birthdays and special occasions. The family called her their 'secretary'.

Margaret lived a very active lifestyle, where she was involved in many community programs. She loved to attend the Port Augusta women's group with her family and friends. At the women's group, some of the activities involved cooking kangaroo tails, picking wild peaches and doing arts and crafts.

Margaret was also a part of the Careers SA group, where she enjoyed the careers trip's. Margaret's off siders during these trips were, her sister Amy, Niece Erica and good friend Pam (deceased).

Margaret loved to travel far and wide to visit her family and friends. She loved telling stories about her train rides on the Ghan to Maree or Alice Springs with her sister Valerie. She would travel to Alice Springs to spend time with her sister Julie, brother in-law Warren (deceased) and other family members. Margaret also spoke about her visits to Tennant Creek to see her sister Colleen, brother in law Rossi, nephews Richard and Joe and niece Nadine and family. Margaret also spoke about her trip to NSW, to visit her cousin Audrey Strangways.

Margaret would often visit her daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren in Ceduna to spend Christmas and school holidays with them. Margaret always took it in her stride to help Michelle and Wayne look after the kids while they were at work. Jacinta and Tanyta would always humbug Nana Margie to take them to the park and she would never say no.

In 1996 the Native Title Land Claim started. Margaret was always a travelling companion with the family to Birdsville, then on to the Simpson Desert, where they would camp for a week, recording sacred sites, small animals, birds, and checking the bush tucker that grew around those areas. Margaret and the family did this until they got the Wangkangurru/Yarluyandi Consent of Determination on the 3rd October 2014. After the consent, they still continued to do these trips to Birdsville and the Simpson Desert.
